Redondo Beach Comp'y,

ry of last year. I went to Dr. Hilar some teeth extracted, and he took Dr. Hilar's office. At that time I employed at H. C. Barber's cigar and general housework. Dr. Hilar extracted a tooth for me and treated me. I saw him again at his office, him to do some work for which I am. The work took two or three days. He worked for various lengths, according to his convenience. I again some two or three weeks ago, when he met me on the street. He asked me if I would get a carriage, saying he would take me the Bradleys. We went for a ride and we had a conversation, but I don't remember the particulars. He called upon Bradley's once, I left Bradley's at a friend's, who is a friend, and then I 514 South First street, with my procured a room. Dr. Hilar visited me, or rather he called upon me between the time I met him and the time I left the Bradleys. I left on the 1st of June. He visited me at 100 and engaged himself to me about the June or the beginning of July. He has no definite time when he will visit me. I told my sister, but she objected. Wells: What was her objection? Question was taken by counsel for the defense. Minnie having been on the objection sustained. Question continued: Dr. Hilar came to visit me frequently and he represented himself to me as a single man. Wells: I will here ask, after you engaged, whether Dr. Hilar took any s with you; when it was done and came about? [The witness here indicates of crying and weeping.] Have no fear about it; tell me the thing, Hattie. Question continued: Yes, sir. I went to see one day, or rather he sent for me down, and he wanted to operate on me and in the evening he told me I wished me to take a preparation for he had some painful work to do in my teeth, and it would be better to take it. I objected, but he persisted. When I came to I found me the soft and feeling very bad. Wells: Where were you when he put the preparation preparatory to putting the operation? Question: I was in the operating chair. Wells: What did he say to you? Question: He told me as I was feeling so. Wells: I had better have no more at then, and he took me home in a carriage. Wells: Did you find out anything afterward? Question: I discovered something. Wells: What time, about, did it occur? Question: It was between 4:30 and 5:30. Wells: What time was it when you were home in the car? Question: About 6 o'clock. Wells: When you got home, what did you do? Question: I went to bed, and remained in bed next evening. Wells: Did the drug have any bad effect? Question: Yes, I felt ill. Wells: What was it made you feel? Question: I do not know. Wells: When did you see the doctor again? Question: I don't know exactly. He called me one day, but I didn't see him. Wells: Did he call the next day? Question: I think not. Wells: Did he call the next day? Question: Yes, sir. Wells: State what occurred on that day. Question: I don't remember exactly. Wells: Did he say anything about treatment at his room? Question: Yes, sir, something. Wells: Give it to the jury in your own words. Question: Something to the effect that he used me wrongly. He showed it to me when I accused him, but he said it wasn't. I think I then said: "You have hurt me and blighted my life." I don't remember all that passed between us. Wells: What did he say? Question: He said: Oh, no, he hadn't. We were engaged to be married. Wells: When did you see him again? Question: I think I didn't see him again until returned from Mrs. Barber's, when I met her. He took liberties with me in the car. When I returned from the carriage, we renewed our friendship. Wells: What was the next occasion, if you remember. Question: I remember indistinctly. Wells: Were you ever with him at his house. Question: Yes, sir. Wells: Tell the jury all that passed there. Question: We were out riding one afternoon and we went to the Nadeau for a ride. After supper we went into the car and he proposed getting a room and staying all night. Wells: Did you consent to the proposition? Question: No, sir, I said I would do nothing. Wells: What else did you say? Did he say anything? Question: Yes, sir. Wells: What inducements did he use to get you? Question: He said I would soon be his wife. Wells: Did he make any effort to get you to comply with his wishes? Question: Yes, he wanted to register, but I refused and started to go home. Wells: Did he call on you after that? Question: Yes, sir. He called regularly. Wells: Were you in love with him? Question: Yes, sir, I did love him. [Here witness faltered and showed signs of wanting to cry.] Wells: Was there any talk about it when you were to be married? Question: Yes, sir, but I don't remember at that time I've had so much worry and that I don't remember. Wells: When did you discover that he was married? Question: I discovered it on Sunday. It was the 1st of October. I had not got rid of my old lady, and I had a friend who she was. He said she was my friend, I insisted, and said I knew. I told him that a lady friend whom I had met in his office, would give me the information. He said for God's sake get him into no more trouble, that was his wife. Wells: What did he say about his wife? Question: He said she was his wife. I told him in horror, but I saw by his face that it was true. I burst out and asked him why he had done so. He replied that he had not intended to tell me; that he intended to marry me, but he did not love his wife. Wells: Well, what else, Miss Hattie? Question: I don't remember now exactly, I did say. Question: He said he was not living with her; he intended to get a divorce, and would soon marry me. Wells: Did you tell any one of your friends? Question: I did not tell my discovery to any one; I kept it to myself. Wells: On the Monday what happened and did you purchase any drugs? Question: Yes, I bought some salicylic acid. Wells: What did you propose to do with it? Question: I intended to end my life, I was unhappy and wretched. Wells: Did you take the children with you? Question: Yes, sir. Wells: What effects resulted; did you feel any better? Question: I felt no better.

ry of last year. I want to Dr. Brad some teeth extracted, and he took Dr. Harlan's office. At that time I employed at H. C. Bradley's, doing and general housework. Dr. Harlan a tooth for me and treated here. I saw him again at his office him to do some work for which I am. The work took two or three days. He worked for various lengths of time, according to his engagements. I again some two or three weeks later, when he met me on the street. He asked me if I could get carriage, saying he would take me to the Bradley's. We went for a ride and we had a conversation, but I don't remember the particulars. He called upon Bradley's once. I left Bradley's at a second and stayed for two nights at Wheeler's, who is a friend, and then I did South Street, with my wife, procured a room. Dr. Harlan visited me, or rather he called upon me between the time I met him and when I left the Bradley's. I left on the 1st of June. He called upon me and engaged himself to me about the 1st of June or the beginning of July. I saw no definite time for his coming. I told my sister, but she objected. Wells: What was her objection? I was taken by surprise on the question, Minnie having been on the objection sustained. I continued to see Dr. Harlan come to visit me frequently and he improved himself to me as a single man. Wells: I will leave that, after you agreed whether Dr. Harlan took any s with you; when it was done and came about? [The witness gave indications of being quite nervous.] Have no fear about it; tell the thing, Hattie. I continued to see Dr. Harlan. Yes, sir. I went to see him one day, or rather he sent for me down, and he wanted to operate on me, and in the evening he told me he wished me to take a preparation before he had some painful work to do on my teeth, and it would be better to take it. I objected, but eventually yielded. When I came to I found my teeth and feeling very bad. Wells: Where was he coming from in the preparation preparatory to performing the operation? I was in my operating chair. Wells: What did he say to you? He told me as I was feeling so, perhaps I had better have no more teeth, and he took me home in a carriage. Wells: Did you find out anything afterward? I discovered something. Wells: What time, about, did it occur? It was between 4:30 and 5:00. Wells: What time was it when you were home in the cab? I was about 6 o'clock. Wells: When you got home, what did you do? I went to bed, and remained there next evening. Wells: Did the drug have any bad effects? Yes, I felt ill. Wells: What was it made you feel ill? I do not know. Wells: When did you see the Doctor again? I didn't know exactly. He called on me, but I didn't see him. Wells: Did he call the next day? I think not. Wells: Did he call the next day? I don't know. Wells: State what occurred on the next day. I don't remember exactly. Wells: Did he say anything about treatment at his room? Yes, sir, something. Wells: Give it to him in a hurry, as nearly as you can. Something to the effect that he said he was going to treat me, and I accused him, but he said it was all right. I then said, "You have been so kind to my teeth, and I will remember all that passed between us." Wells: What did he say? He said: Oh, no, he hadn't. We were engaged to be married. Wells: When did you see him again? I think I didn't see him again until I returned from the country. After supper we went into the room and he proposed getting a room and all night. Wells: Did you consent to the same? No, sir, I said I would do nothing. Wells: What else did you say? Did it? Yes, sir. Wells: What inducements did he offer it, if any? He said I would soon be his wife. Wells: Did he make any effort to get on to comply with his wishes? Yes, he went to register, but I refused and started to go home. Wells: Did he call on you after that? Yes, sir. He called regularly. Wells: Were you in love with him? Yes, sir, I did love him. [Here witness faltered and showed reluctance to cry.] Wells: Was there any talk about it when you were to be married? Yes, sir, but I don't remember at that time. I've had so much worry and that I don't remember. Wells: When did you discover that a married man? I discovered it on Sunday. I was the 1st of October. I was out riding with another lady, and she told me that she had seen him who she was. He said she was his friend. I insisted, and said I would know. I told him that a lady friend of mine had met him in his office, would the information. He said for God's sake get him into no more trouble, that his wife. Wells: What did he say about his wife so forth? Tell me how he said it. He said in horror, but I saw by his face that it was true. I burst out and asked him why he had deceived me; replied that he had not intended to do that; that he intended to marry me, and did not love his wife. Wells: Well, what else, Miss Hattie? I don't remember now exactly. I did say. He said he was not living with his wife, but he intended to get a divorce, and would soon marry me. Wells: Did you tell any one of your friends? I did not tell my discovery to any one; I kept it to myself. Wells: On the Monday what happened did you purchase any dresses? Yes, I bought some children's dresses. Wells: What did you propose to do with them? I intended to send my life, I was happy and wretched. Wells: Did you take the children to the store? Yes, sir. Wells: What effects resulted? I don't know. Yes, sir; but the effects were not anticipated. Wells: On Monday, did you see Dr. Harlan again? Yes, sir.
